PLAY-OFF POSITIONS TAKING SHAPE

The picture at the top of the Griffin Legal John I Dent Cup is becoming much clearer, with the top-three recording key victories in round seven. Preseason form guide probably would have put Eagles, Royals, Vikings and Owls in the playoff positions, but the order through seven games may have surprised a few.

Starting with the Eagles, who have been simply brilliant to start 2019. Five bonus point wins in five games means Gungahlin top the ladder heading into today's full slate of games. Their latest victory, 38-32 over Owls was the latest litmus test of Marco Caputo's contenders. Owls are pushing forward this year, and despite going behind early against the Eagles they pushed the table toppers all the way and have made similar valiant efforts in defeat against Royals and Tuggeranong. So that just rubber stamps that this Eagles side are here to stay and are no longer a dark horse.

They'll be heavily favoured against Wests today at Jamison Enclosed in the Hahn Superdry Match of the Round, but the Lions won't be tamed easily at home and have shown an ability to shock and awe this season, though it hasn't led to enough winning. Not too far away the Owls will look to consolidate their position in fourth against the Whites at ANU North Oval.

Quietly unbeaten, Royals are not far behind Gungahlin. Last Saturday saw the Blue Baggers beat Queanbeyan 56-24 at Phillip Oval, a brace a piece from Siuta Tai and Ben Johnston being the difference on the day. Royals don't seem to be getting the same kind of buzz as the Eagles so far this season, and it's hard to know why. Perhaps it's because they haven't had to play either Vikings or Gungahlin yet but Royals are building nicely, and they'll be right up for it against Easts today. There is absolutely no love lost between Easts and Royals, and the Suburbs would love nothing more than to knock off the Blue Baggers today to get their first notch in the win column.

Easts had a tough go of it in round seven, on the end of a 80-17 hammering by the Champions, Vikings. This was a real statement from Vikings, their form is not quite where we may have expected it to be. A plethora of names were on the scoresheet for Tuggies, who certainly seemed to have withheld their best performance for Easts.

RUGBY IN THE AGT — THE EARLY YEARS

Accounts of the new game of rugby football spread from Sydney throughout the Monaro District in the 1870s and in 1878, Queanbeyan and Yass played Rugby. Uniforms at the time were guernseys, knickerbockers o below the knee, and long socks and boots. One of the earliest teams, Bibbenluke on the Monaro, played in green guernseys with a red cross on the chest.

The Queanbeyan Age reported on 27 June 1888, that a match between Queanbeyan and Goulburn became so heated that a Goulburn player suffered a broken collarbone and a Queanbeyan player, Isaiah Lazarus, was badly hurt making a tackle. "Tempers flared," said the newspaper, "and in one scrimmage a Queanbeyan player collared a Goulburn man about the region of the scalp; the man so collared resented this treatment by giving his opponent a gentle shaking, upon which the Queanbeyan player referred to, in a clear and melodious tone, informed the visitors that if they required anything his address was the backyard of the Royal Hotel."

Queanbeyan was the lively centre of the game during the early years of the twentieth century, with teams called the Waratahs, Golden Eagles, Wallaroos and Warrigals in action. Further South, elementary competitions had started in the area from Cooma to Bombala and Delegate. Some towns took their rugby seriously enough to award caps to players selected in their teams.

T.J. Tynan (captain), R.A.Price, E.H. Ferguson, T.P.Moloney, E. Carter, S. Witney, W.Hill, James Wearne, A.Denning, J.Batt, W.Roberts, A.Wipp, P.Maher, T.Bergin, T.Everitt, Emergencies: S. Munn, T.Hewitt, H. Whiting.
(GOULBURN HERALD, THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1888).

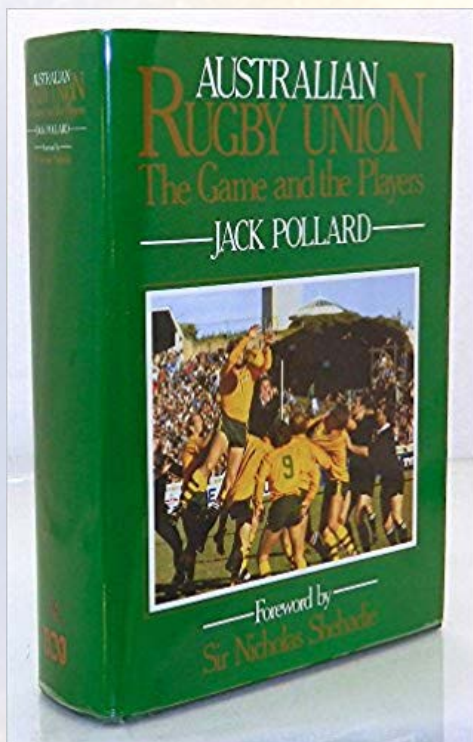

After World War I, Rugby matches continued to play a prominent role in the life of towns on the Southern tablelands, but by the mid-1920's most teams had switched to League. The exception was the Royal Military College, Duntroon whose cadets had played Rugby as their main winter sport since its establishment in 1911. Rugby vanished from the ACT when the RMC transferred to Sydney in 1931, and apart from at the Canberra Grammar School, was not played there again until the Military College returned to Duntroon in 1937.

One of the officers at Duntroon, Colonel Horace Robertson, known as "Red Robbie", was a keen rugby fan, and enlisted support from ACT businessmen and Canberra's population of just over 8000. Among those who helped get the code re-established was Major Phillip Cardale, coach of the RMC team; John Kelly, the driving force behind Easts; John Dent, who donated the Dent Cup for first grade competition; A.K. Healy, a stalwart of the Northern Suburbs Club; and Don Rodgers, then a reporter for the labour Daily.

Helped by businessman Bill Woodger, public servants Tom Carmody, A.L. Ramsey, Fred Doran, Jack Merriless, Roy Alexander, Keith Waugh and plumber Jack Kelly, Rodgers forged the ACT Rugby Union into a viable force. Starting with a series of friendly matches in 1937, the ACTRU launched a competition for four clubs in 1938. They were the Royal Military College, Northern Suburbs, Eastern Suburbs and Canberra University College, at that time an offshoot of Melbourne University. The competition, always for the John Dent Cup, has continued ever since, apart from a break during the 1942-45 World War II years.

Of the four foundation clubs, Royal Military

College and Northern Suburbs continued without a break and have been frequent grand finalists. Eastern Suburbs dropped out between 1950 and 1953 but re-emerged to help the code's continued growth. The Canberra University College did not re-form in 1946, and was replaced by the Australian National University Club, when the University was established.

ROYALS 70th ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATING FIVE-IN-A-ROW

There's never been an era of dominance like that exercised by Canberra Royals between 1984 and 1994 when the Blue Baggers reached an incredible ELEVEN successive John I Dent Cup Finals. That included their record-setting five-in-a-row from 1987 through to 1991. Equally incredibly, they played and defeated Daramalan, now Gungahlin Eagles in four of those five matches, Tuggeranong Vikings being the other victims in the last of the streak.

It was so nearly seven-in-a-row as Royals won the 1985 Final against Daramalan 13-4 before Daramalan exacted revenge a year later, winning 13-9. This was the era of the Royals and Daramalan axis of the competition, the duo perennial Grand Finalists and sick to the back teeth of seeing each other on the big day. More so for the fore-runners of the Eagles as they, more often than not, were the one's that went home with their tail between their legs.

Over the course of the next half-a-dozen pages we reprint the team line-ups, as they were presented in the official match programs of the time. It makes for interesting reading to see the changes in personnel across both clubs during this amazing period of the club game in Canberra. Kicking off this special section of Stampede, are the teams from the 1953 showdown between Royals and RMC. This was Royals third Grand Final of their record 39 appearances, a game they lost 5-18 before winning their maiden title twelve months later.

ANDERSON AWARD PRESENTATION

The S. Anderson Trophy for the player with the most sportsmanlike approach to the game will be awarded after today's game. Two awards will be made -- one to a services team player and the other to a civilian club player. The P & A sub-tee (Messrs S. Anderson, G. C. C. Deley & J. M. Jones) felt that the award should be one season; but, at the same time, recognised that services players (RMC, RAAF, Navy) often had a restricted career. The two trophies will be perpetual and will be the property of each of the winners for 12 months.

The sub-tee has had a difficult task and after several meetings during the year, had a meeting last Wed when 12 names were discussed. The final decision will be taken at Manuka oval this afternoon. The two names will then

TRYING NOT TO BE THE CENTRE OF ATTENTION

In an ordinary game of rugby union, there's thirty people on the field who all, at some stage or another, probably be the centre of attention; the playmakers, the try-scorers, the heroes for their respective sides. Everyone wants to stand out and make an impression, looking to highlight their talents in front of all the onlookers who have come to watch eighty minutes of rugby.

However, the 31st man on the field is arguably the most important and can be the biggest influence on the match, although their role is to try and stay out of the spotlight for as long as possible. Match officials play a crucial part in ensuring games can go ahead and be run fairly for both teams participating, making the game an equal experience for everyone involved.

Reuben Keane knows what it's like to be on both sides of the coin, as a player for the Canberra Royals Premier Grade side, as well as being one of the most sought-after referees in the Canberran Rugby ranks. Coming up as a junior to now play at the top level in the ACT as well as perform referee duties on the side, Keane says the influence to his current pathway started early.

"For me it more started as a player," he said. "I was a junior player in Under 9's and then from there, my dad got involved as a referee and probably half way through school, I was refereeing and playing every weekend. That's pretty much continued still to this day. My Dad's influence got me into it a bit but at the time, it was a bit of cash for a year 8 kid that didn't have much money!

"I'm still playing for Royals at the moment in premier grade, very much enjoying that. Pretty much from year 8 onwards it's been week in, week out but at the moment it's a bit difficult with only bye-weeks that I referee, there's still a lot of playing."

Reuben isn't the only player in his family with brother Bryce selected to play in the ACT schoolboys team last year in last year's championships. The referee/player dynamic under the same roof may be awkward for some but Keane says it's helped the pair develop in their separate roles and understand how to run the game.

"It makes for some interesting conversations!" Keane said. "I know he's now a notorious player for having good questions for referees and that can definitely come from some of the conversations we've had over the dinner table on a Saturday night. We've both benefitted from it a lot, it's an interesting dynamic but its tended to work in both of our favours. A lot of referees talk about going from being the first priority to the 31st man. You have to take a back seat to facilitate the game. You're trying not to be noticed but sometimes you might have to be noticed. Every game is different; some games you have to take a stand but in some others, you can just take that 31st man position and let the game happen without intervening too much."

Off the back of the schoolboy's tournament and officiating at the rugby sevens tournament in the Commonwealth Games, Keane says the experience was a straightforward one which has now set him up for bigger chances in the future.

"I just took it as it came, you just have to match what the standard is and stay to that," he said. "You do what you normally do, that's why you're picked for those sorts of things. There's a lot of opportunity in refereeing at the moment, especially with Rugby Sevens which is one of the fastest growing forms of the game and there will be some chances down that path. The World Series is becoming more of an opportunity for me, I think that will still take its time but the regular circuit is still in my sights though the timeline leaves a bit of a question mark for me."

DIRTY REDS CLEAR OF THE PACK

Goulburn still hold an eight-point gap atop the First Division First Grade ladder after claiming a resounding 54-12 win away to Cooma last Saturday. Maintaining a spotless record through seven rounds, the Dirty Reds were helped to their fifth bonus point victory by a Hamish McCormack double and seven conversions from backrow marvel, Mikael Webber.

Hot at their heels but still a way away are the Gungahlin Eagles, though their latest triumph, a 47-0 thrashing of the Uni-Norths Owls suggests they may be Goulburn's closest rivals. Things were much closer in Royals matchup with ADFA at Phillip Oval. The Blue Baggers entered the contest one point behind the Defence Force side and came away with a hard-fought 20-14 victory to move into third place, Tim Elliot's try being the difference on the day.

ADFA now have just a single point cushion between them and Hall in fifth after the Bushrangers beat Wests away at Weetangera Oval. Both sides managed to bag a bonus-point haul tries but ultimately it was the boot of Hall fullback Connor O'Donoghue which decided the match, the Bushrangers holding on for a crucial 28-24 victory.

In the final match of the round, the Tuggeranong Vikings claimed their best win of the year with a 69-0 beat-down of the Beasties, Easts. Centre Cameron Shaw stole the show for Vikings, scoring four tries and even managing to add two points off the tee.

First division takes a break this weekend due to the long weekend. But there will be plenty of action next week. Goulburn welcome Hall to Simon Poidevin Park in what could be a potential banana peel game for the leaders. Gungahlin will hope so though they'll have to get the job done against Royals who could overtake the Eagles with victory at Nicholls. Owls v ADFA promises to be a barn burner while Vikings will hope to get on a run of wins against Wests.

TIGERS OPEN CLEAR DAYLIGHT

The Taralga Tigers have moved seven-points clear at the top of the South Coast Monaro Second Division after coming out victorious in the top-of-the-table clash against the Jindabyne Bushpigs at the Taralga Sports Field on Saturday. The Tigers outscored their visitors by six tries to four to continue their dominance of the competition as they consolidated their status as favourites to land the crown.

Both Joel Croker and Nicholas Bennett crossed for two tries each as the Tigers ran out 40-22 winners. Lachlan Young and Dale Graham claimed other two tries for the Tigers with Croker continuing his prolific season by slotting over five conversions for another twenty-point personal tally. The Tigers will look to continue their fine run of form when they travel to Yass whilst the Bushpigs head to winless Broulee.

The Dolphins lost their seventh game in succession at Captain Oldrey Park as the visiting Crookwell Dogs continued their resurgence with a 38-5 success. Danny Knight crossed for two scores for the Dogs with Liam Jones converting four of the six tries scored by the visiting team. The Dogs host the Bungendore Mudchooks in Crookwell as they look to cement their place in the top four.

It will be far from a straightforward objective for the Dogs as the Mudchooks go into the contest in good form having beaten the Braidwood Redbacks 24-15 at Mick Sherd Oval. Ratu Jone Pio Macanawai crossed the line for two tries for Bungendore who held on to claim an important success.

The game of the round was undoubtedly at Yass as the Rams were beaten 46-33 in a high-scoring classic by the Batemans Bay Boars. The Boars claimed six tries whilst the Rams crossed for five, but it was the boot of James Thomas that separated the teams at the final whistle. Thomas kicked five conversions and two penalties to finish with sixteen points for the afternoon, a tally that was good enough to see the Boars return home with the win.

INDIGENOUS ROUND PROMO

To promote our Indigenous Round at GIO Stadium last night, Andy Muirhead, Jahrome brown and Sammy Maxwell took a trip to Stromlo High School in Waramanga to have a go at Buroinjin. Buroinjin is a ball game played by the Kabi Kabi people of southern Queensland. The game was played with a ball made of kangaroo skin which was called a buroinjin. Spectators used to mark their applause by calling out ‘Ei, ei’. This is a running and ball passing game. The aim is for a player of one team to run with the buroinjin (ball) and fully cross over the score line at the other end of the field to score a touchdown. The game is started and restarted after a touchdown with a pass by a team from behind their own score line - halfway for younger players. It’s fair to say the trio enjoyed the experience organised by Ben Johnston of Royals.
